DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

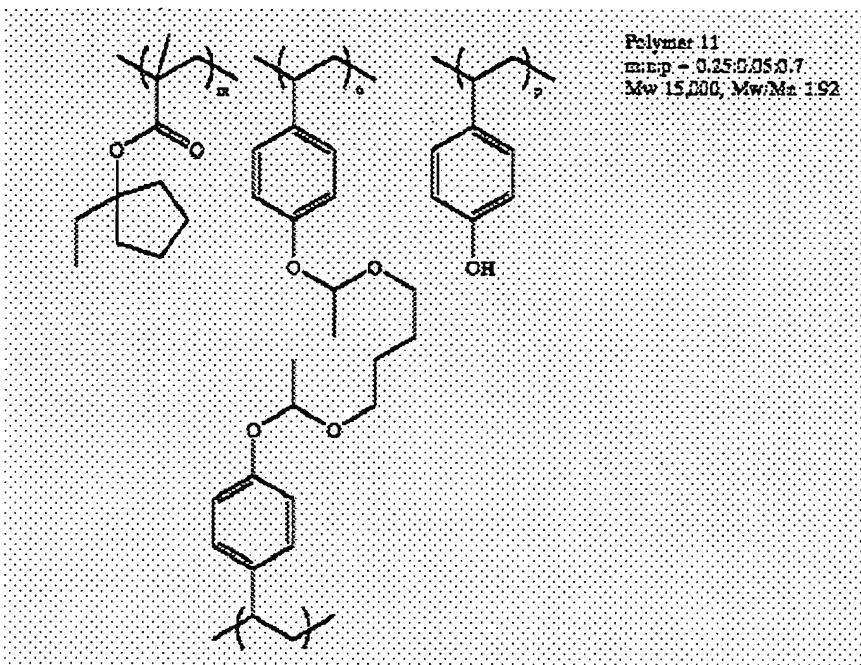

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 2, 4-6, 8, 9 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Hatakeyama (US 6,869,744 B2).

In one of the working examples (see Table 1), Hatakeyama teaches a chemically amplified positive resist composition containing Polymer 5 (10 pbw), Polymer 11 (90 pbw), a photoacid generator PAG 1, and a basic compound. Polymer 11 is shown below

, and this polymer teaches present formula (V) of claim 2. Hatakeyama's PAG 1 is (p-tert-butoxyphenyl)diphenylsulfonium camphorsulfonate (see col.55), and Hatakeyama teaches (col.42, lines 54-60, line 67, col.43, line 1) the equivalence of this photoacid generator and triphenylsulfonium nonafluorobutanesulfonate (which is also listed in present specification, pg.46). One skilled in the art would immediately envisage using triphenylsulfonium nonafluorobutanesulfonate as Hatakeyama's PAG. Therefore, the prior art teaches present inventions of claims 2, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9 and 11 (since Hatakeyama's composition teaches present chemical amplification type positive photoresist composition of claim 2, it is the Examiner's position that Hatakeyama's composition would inherently be capable of being used for a thick-film photolithography process used for forming a resist film having a thickness of 2-7 um as presently recited in claims 8 and 9).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

Art Unit: 1752

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hatakeyama (US 6,869,744 B2) in view of Takeda et al (US 2001/0035394 A1).

Although Hatakeyama does not teach present gamma-butyrolactone of claim 7, propylene glycol methyl ether acetate, which is the solvent used in Hatakeyama's working examples, and gamma-butyrolactone are known in the art as equivalent organic solvents used for a chemically amplified positive resist composition. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to use gamma-butyrolactone as Hatakeyama's solvent because those two solvents were art-known equivalents at the time the invention was made. Thus, Hatakeyama in view of Takeda would render obvious present invention of claim 7.

5. Claims 13 and 14 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims. Hatakeyama'744 does not teach or suggest present step of forming a resist film having a thickness of 2-7 um.

6. Claims 1, 3, 10, 12, and 15-22 are allowed. Hatakeyama'744 does not teach or suggest present resin (A) of claim 1 or present resin (A") of claim 3. Hatakeyama'744 does not teach or suggest present alkali-insoluble unit (a2') having no acid dissociable dissolution-inhibiting group of claim 15.
